MADISON COLLEGE. - We are requested by Prof. Pierce, the President of this institution, to state that the College has been closed for the present. Prof. Pierce will open a Preparatory School for boys, next Monday, 7th Oct.

"Once More Unto the Rescue, dear Friends, Ouce More !"

We again call upon all persons who are indebted to us for subscription, advertising and job work, to come to the relief of The Citizen in this its darkest hour of gloom and peril. It is with the greatest difficulty-and has been for the last three months-that we collect money enough to buy the paper we use in its publication. We know that times are hard, and money very scarce, but we think it should be a point of honor with those who owe us for our paper, and for work done for them, to pay us those small amounts, or a portion of them, at least, to protect us from a heavy lossperhaps from ruin-in being compelled to suspend the publication of the paper altogether, for the want of means to carry it on. We are upon the very verge of that necessity at this moment, just having used our last paper, and having no money to buy more. This is the solemn truth, and there is no use in concealing it from our friends. We have upon our books thousands of dollars in accounts, but these will not buy paper and ink, nor pay hands, nor feed the gastronomical apparatus, nor clothe the body, nor buy wood to keep the body warm. All these things we are compelled to have, and the cash is universally demanded for them.

It is poor consolation to run over these numberless accounts from day to day, and see how many there are that should have been, and could have been, paid long ago, while, owing to their non-payment, we see our paper going down, and have not the means to keep it up.

We urge upon all who owe us, that they pay us a portion of the indebtedness. if they cannot pay all. The ocean is muckle." If each one of our subscribers who are in arrears will pay us but ONE DOLLAR, it will enable us to keep the paper up. Upon the prompt payment from each one of a portion of his indebtedness to this office, does the existence of The Citizen depend.

It is no use to send the accounts in the paper; they are only looked at and thrown down, and forgotten. Those who owe us know it. Let them bring or send us some money, and we will return a receipt, and give the proper credit on the book.

Regulsition for More Troops.

In response to a call from Gen. A. S Johnston, in command of the Western Department of our Army, Gov. Pettus has issued his proclamation calling for ten thousand additional volunteers from this State, to enlist either for the war or for twelve months. Vicksburg, Natchez and Grenada are the places of rendezvous.

We hope this call will be responded to with alacrity by the brave sons of Mississippi, who have never yet failed to come promptly to the rescue when their services were demanded by their country.

In this part of the State, however, the material for soldiers seems to be pretty well exhausted. For the last three months we have heard of three or four companies in process of formation, but only one of them (Capt. Postell's) has been organized, and this, we believe, is not

The Artillery have advertised a meeting to day for the election of officers. We hope that every man who has signed the roll will "come up to the scratch," take part in the election, and then "stand up to the rack, fodder or no fodder." We fear there are too many after the 'fodder,' and some who fail to get office will become discontented and withdraw, thus endangering the success of the company. Every aspirant for an office should go into the election with a determination to abide the decision of his comrades. All cannot be officers, and the private in the ake, if he discharges faithfully his duty, is entitled to as much honor as the highest officer in the land. We hope our fears may prove groundless, and that the Artillery may organize to-day to the satisfaction of all, and that it and Capt. Postell's company may be the first to offer their services to the Governor under the new requisition.

> Rags .- The Vicksburg Whig calls the attention of the people to the fact that as our supply of paper has been cut off from the North, the only remedy for the scarcity of that article is to make it in the Confederacy. This cannot be done without rags. Rags must be saved or we annot get paper, and if paper gives out the newspapers must be suspended. Let everybody, then, save rags, pieces of bagging, bits of rope-anything made of cot ton-there will soon be a demand for all these things that cannot be supplied.

Tune, -" On to the Charge."

The rosy light of morn appeared, And tinged the distant mountain height, When lo! the bugle's blast was heard, To arms! to arms! prepare for fight. The foe is nigh, he's clad in steel, And, vaunting, now defies your might; Hark! hark! his rifle cannons peal Along the vale, and to the right, Tramp, tramp, tramp, echoes through the vale Form in line of battle men, And face the storm of iron hail With hearts of steel, and fronts of mail.

The clarion sound, the battle cry. Awake the warriors from their rest, And Beauregard and Johnston fly To lead the bravest and the best. Their hopes and aims are all alike, In freedom's cause they all unite, And now the bold invader strike With terror, rout, and fell dismay. Fight," the gallant Bartow cried,

As on the ensanguined field he lay, "Your country marks your deeds with pride, And date your triumph from this day." Lo! on the left the leaden hail, And booming cannon's deadly blow, Make brave men shrink and stout hearts quail And streams of blood from freemen flow;

With speed the gallant Johnston came, And seized the regimental flag; Come on, brave men, I'll lead to fame And rule the fortunes of this day." "Onl on!" the gallant soldier cried, As o'er the field of slain he flew, "Your country marks your deeds with pride, "There's work for every man to do." Peal, trumpets ! peal ! that foe has fled. The immense popularity awarded by a discerning publit to the Highland Bitters is beyond all precedent, but not more than is actually deserved, as it cannot be too highly recommended. It is simple, delightful and an effectual remedy in all cases of Debility, Indigestion and Headache. It exercises a soothing influence over the nervous system, and imports that health and tone to the Stomach so much longed for by the convalescent.—N. Y. Herald.
